President's Message ... Mark Vitale

Weather the storm. This is a term we have heard many times over. As an avid boater, there have been many times I have been caught in a storm and just had to wait it out. But most of the time I have avoided the storm by being proactive, planning things out, and using the resources available to me to create a smooth and enjoyable voyage. As I am writing this, we are all weathering the storm in the financial market. Unfortunately, as dentists, most of us are not trained in economics and finance, and are dependent on others for assistance in making decisions. The most frequent advice we hear right now is to sit tight and weather the storm. We don't have much control and this of course adds to the uncertainty and stress.

Dentistry over the years has weathered many storms and will continue to do so, but most of the time we have been successful in avoiding the storm. We have defined and addressed the uncertainties and we have avoided the associated stress. As a boater I rely on the radar and other electronics along

“Mastering the Direct Posterior Composite Restoration”: Dr. Alan Atlas

Dr. Alan Atlas received his D.M.D degree in 1986 from the University of Pennsylvania and served there as acting Co-Chairman of the Department of Preventive and Restorative Sciences. Currently, Dr. Atlas is a Clinical Associate Professor, Co-Director of Restorative Dentistry Clinics and a primary care unit group leader in charge of mentoring third and fourth year dental students in advanced clinical dentistry. In addition, he is actively involved in the development and integration of clinical research studies for implants and dental materials at Penn. Dr. Atlas is an internationally recognized lecturer focused on applying scientific-based protocols to clinical dentistry. He maintains a private practice in Esthetic and Comprehensive Restorative Dentistry located in Philadelphia.

There are four major elements that will determine the success of a direct posterior composite restoration: tooth preparation, material choice, placement technique and curing method. This lecture will examine the scientific evidence to determine the how each element will play a critical role in determining which materials, systems and techniques are best to utilize when doing these procedures. Participants will learn:

- Tooth preparation for initial carious lesions and replacement of existing restorations
- Selection of materials, placement and curing methods for optimal direct posterior composite restorations
- The most up-to-date analysis of dentin bonding agents with total-etch versus self-etch systems compared
- Microleakage and nanoleakage – Materials, systems and techniques that demonstrate the best results for success in the research
- Finishing and polishing techniques
- The controlled placement and delayed polymerization technique for optimum long term results

Treasurer's Report-Robert Ashmen

See full report on page 3.

Editor's Report-Bob Silverstein, Constantine Simos

The October issue was sent out to 449 members and 26 received it electronically.

Since our costs for each individual newsletter run about $3, we can save a considerable amount of money if members register to receive the newsletter electronically. Members can do so on the "Of Current Interest" page of our web site.

Educational Coordinator-David Stein

In regards to the last meeting and vendor exposure, I was concerned about the room set up. However when I spoke with the vendors they seemed pleased with the turnout and had mentioned that dentists had stopped by the tables to discuss their products. I vote not to let the vendors back at no cost. I would consider having them back at a reduced cost. One of the vendors has not yet paid.

At the present time I am in the process of coordinating AV services for 10-21, 10-22, 3-18-09, 4-21-09 and 4-22-09. I am also trying to coordinate with Jackie Marko to have back to back meetings in the same room to eliminate breakdown and resetting of AV equipment at a cost of about $400-$600 per setup. This may be a point where we can save money with the AV company. I also need to know AV requirements in advance. If the speaker brings their own projector, that can save us money. As of this time I do not think the pines can have the October meeting in the same room. Jackie said it may come down to the last minute.

According to Ethan Glickman and Dr. Ziemba, Jeff Weiss From High tech would like to get involved with the MCDS possibly in the news letter and with sponsorship and possibly speaking for our society. We will try to accommodate him.

NJDA Trustee's Report- Nancy Villa

In light of escalating costs evident in NJDA's upcoming budget, the MCDS board passed a motion, approved unanimously by NJDA's trustees, that all officers, trustees, delegates, council and committee members receive meeting packets and related information electronically unless requested otherwise.

NJDA is looking into generating revenue by hosting online CE in conjunction with Dentistry Today. In the meantime we are expanding the Journal's oral pathology CE from 4 to 8 credits with associated testing on NJDA's website.

The August Capsule has been eliminated since there is a lot less news to report in the summer. The savings will be $6,400. In addition, there will be an annual savings of an additional $1,800 by not preprinting extra copies of the capsule that are normally mailed to members on request. They will instead be referred to the web to download the capsule.

NJDA is revamping and updating the practice management resource with information provided by NOAA. As a dentist I rely on organized dentistry and our PAC. Whether a boater or a dentist, these essential protective resources we have available to us come at cost, a cost that I think is well worth it.

The NJ Dental Political Action Committee doesn't support a party; it supports a profession. It doesn't buy votes or politicians; it buys a voice for the profession and access to those who impose regulations and taxes. There are many groups competing for the ears of the legislators, many of whom have interests that are contrary to dentistry's interests; these include environmentalists, insurance companies and trial lawyers; all very powerful groups that want us to stop practicing the way we do today. Besides the competing groups, we now need to be concerned with the outcome of the Presidential election and the resultant impact on healthcare. There will be some form of healthcare reform, possibly some form of National Health Insurance. How will this all impact on Dentistry? We need a strong, active PAC now more than ever. We need more than the current 30% of our membership to be active.

So you may ask what has NJDPAC, the largest healthcare PAC and sixth largest overall PAC, done for me? NJDPAC, coupled with a strong lobbying effort, has twice stopped a 3.5% professional services tax from being placed on dentistry saving the industry millions. It has helped bring accountability and oversight on insurance issues including dental consultants. It's helping fight environmentalists who want to stop water fluoridation and the use of amalgam. It has helped stop a requirement that dentists carry their license at all times. It has helped stop legislation requirarea of the website.

The Monmouth-Ocean component has brought a motion before the board to revise the dues waiver process. This was referred to the council on membership.

The deputy attorney general is investigating the tooth whitening kiosks that we've been finding at the local malls.

The DEP is requiring that dentists register on their website regarding BMP and amalgam disposal compliance even if one is exempt from needing an amalgam separator.

NJDA has listed recyclers for amalgam waste on the website—click on the upper right hand corner of the home page.

The State Board will soon publish that registered dental hygienists will be allowed to administer local anesthetic injections after completing 20 hrs of didactic training, 20 supervised injections and a written exam by the state board. The dentist must give permission to the RDH to give anesthetic and must also choose the type of anesthetic to be administered.

NJDA and our executive board members have been exploring potential new venues for the annual session. At this point, they haven't found a place that would serve our needs better than the sites we have used in Atlantic City. The Xanadu complex in the Meadowlands may be a possibility in the future but at this time the facility has multiple "vendors" who charge separately for meeting space and the cost would be too high.

NJDA Council Reports:

Dental Education-Bob Ashmen

Council members were assigned to introduce each of the remaining three speakers in the 2008 Weekend Study Club Series. The Council is accepting applications for speakers for the Fall 2009 Series.

A decision was made to implement a new schedule for mailing of the scholarship applications in an effort to increase the number of applicants participating in the program. The applications will now be mailed by August 1st of each year and the deadline for submissions will be October 1st.

The Power Point presentation promoting careers in dental assisting developed by Ms. DeCotiis and Mr. Eric Elmore will be sent to each council member to potentially present at career days at local high schools.

Ms. DeCotiis and Dr. Rossi will attend the 2008 New Jersey School Counselors Association Annual Meeting in Long Branch, New Jersey on October 19, 2008 to promote careers in dental assisting.

At the recommendation of Dr. Robert Hersh, the Council was asked to consider a course in emergency medical response in the dental office offered to the entire dental team. The Council agreed that it should pursue this course idea.

Mr. Eric Elmore submitted a written report to inform the Council that he and Dr. Messana are having meetings with Dentistry Today magazine to discuss joint ventures in conducting on-line CE. Meetings are in the very preliminary stages and Dr. Rossi will be kept apprised of the progress.

Membership-Tara Savage/Devang Modi

Oral Cancer Screening-Arpan Nandra,

I had contacted Delta Dental about the oral cancer screenings that they had sponsored in the beginning of this year. I was given a contact, Bob Schermer, who sets up the screenings in April. I will be working with him to set up a site in Middlesex County for oral cancer screenings in April '09, which is oral cancer awareness month. There are also plans for an oral cancer prevention walk-a-thon in April 09. I look forward to having Middlesex County represented at this walk-a-thon. Bob and I will be meeting to start planning for these activities. In addition, I spoke to Dr. Lederman about getting involved at the state level and also starting up cancer screenings and educational awareness activities on a local level. I will be attending the Workgroup in Dec and will have more information once I attend this meeting. Finally, I have members of the Middlesex County Study Club that are looking to get involved and will be a part of the Task Force.

ing more scrutiny and oversight by government over dentists. It has helped gain dentists favorable policies under PIP. And, perhaps most importantly, it helps distinguish dentistry from medicine so that dentists can best determine their destiny.

I spend several hundred dollars a year to insure a pleasant and safe boat ride. We all spend thousands of dollars a year on insurance; disability, health, life, malpractice, etc. A contribution to PAC is nothing compared to our other expenses, and practically speaking, it gives you the best bang for the buck.

If you are a member of PAC, thank you very much. If you are not a member, you need to thank those who are because they are looking out for your interest; then you need to join today so that as a unified group we can avoid those storms for which we have control, and successfully weather those for which we have little control.

Diabetes: The Two Way Street We All Travel On

Diabetes is a growing medical problem, not only in the US but globally. The individual with diabetes often has numerous other medical complications due to the inability to control blood glucose. Of particular interest to the dental profession is the fact that poor oral health can impact control of blood glucose, and that individuals with diabetes are more prone to developing periodontal disease than someone without diabetes.

This seminar will provide an overview of the diabetes medical condition, the role that oral health plays and steps that we can take as dental professionals to manage our patients with diabetes. Colgate has long been on the forefront of educating dental professionals about the association between oral health problems and diabetes.

This presentation about the Diabetic-Dental Connection is of interest to our dental team, especially our hygienists. Many patients are asking us about this connection as they frequently read about it in the news. We need to be able to answer these questions with up-to-date scientific answers that will be presented at this seminar.
